

The Women's Institute for Leadership and Development (WILD) for Human Rights &

The Human Rights Project at the Urban Justice Center

in partnership with the US Human Rights Network

Invite applications for the ## National Human Rights Institute

February 4-6, 2009 in San Francisco, CA

The National Human Rights Institute is a three-day advanced training program on local implementation of human rights standards to address multiple forms of discrimination. The program is designed for participants who are already engaged in the local implementation of human rights treaties. Participants will have an opportunity to:

- Meet with city officials to discuss the practical questions surrounding implementation of the human rights framework as a public policy strategy;
- Engage in the analysis of implementation efforts in other cities; and
- Network with other advocates from around the country working on local implementation

☞ Interested applicants who are currently engaged in implementation and policy efforts in their respective locales receive first priority and are strongly encouraged to apply.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION FORM TO: programs@wildforhumanrights.org. For questions and more information, please contact 646-602-5628.

Application deadline: December 12th (priority*) and December 17th (regular)